

Abstract of the Disclosure

Systems, methods, and device are provided for network and network device management. One method embodiment includes receiving information associated with a network device. The method further includes analyzing the 5 network information using a Kalman filter.